WHAT HAPPENS TO MY BODY WHEN I'M ANXIOUS?

When you are stressed, adrenalin gets released into your body. This is a chemical messenger which makes your body ready to run away or fight what it thinks is dangerous or threatening. When we were cave people, this was useful, as we were living in the wild and faced many dangers that were threatening to us. Obviously, this does not happen to us in the same way nowadays, but there are times when our body feels we are in danger and that harm might come to us: for example, if we are nearly knocked down by a car, or if climbing up a high step ladder or if hearing a sudden loud noise.

These are everyday events which may make anyone release adrenalin into his or her body. If someone is under stress or tends to worry a lot, adrenalin can be released into the body even though there is nothing really threatening or dangerous to that person. An everyday event, such as going to the shops, travelling by bus or being with a large group of people, can feel frightening and the body reacts by releasing adrenalin.

When adrenalin is released, the feelings in our body change and can make us feel horrible. If you look at the picture on page four, you may recognise some of these feelings. Most people will feel only some of these, not all.

EVERYDAY RELAXATION

When we are tense/anxious our body system speeds up – relaxation slows us down again.

If we can learn to turn on the bodily feelings of relaxation we can turn off the symptoms of tension. You can't experience relaxation and tension at the same time.

It is helpful to try and set aside some time every day for relaxing and unwinding. If possible this should be for at least 30 minutes a day. If you live with other people you might need to train them gradually to accept that you would like to be left alone at certain times each day. For some people just managing to have 30 minutes on their own every day can make a great deal of difference.

There are a number of things you can do that you might find relaxing. You might have to experiment to see which works best for you. Why not try some of these suggestions and see what effect they have on you. There may well be some other ideas that suit you better. Try them and see what is best for you.

Relaxing activities, some suggestions:

- ❖ Have a long hot bath
- ❖ Listen to some soft music
- ❖ Lie on your bed and imagine spending a million pounds
- ❖ Go for a walk
- ❖ Cycle
- ❖ Read an easy book
- ❖ Yoga
- ❖ Swim

When you are anxious, adrenalin builds up in your body. Daily exercise helps to use up some of this adrenalin. You will feel better as a result.

HEALTHY READING

All public libraries have a healthy reading section making it easier to access mental health and well-being leaflets, books, CDs, DVDs and web-based support. All libraries across Lanarkshire have resources to help us get the most from life such as living life to the full, sleeping better and becoming more confident or overcoming and coping with mental health problems such as anxiety, depression, stress, dementia and panic. There are also resources for all ages including supporting young people, adults and older people as well as items on positive parenting. Simply pop into your local library.

GUIDED SUPPORT:

Calm Distress

Calm Distress is a new online course from NHS Lanarkshire Psychological Services, designed for you to use in your own time and at your own pace. It is all about understanding emotions and wellbeing, during Covid-19 and beyond. It is open - and free - to all adults who have a Lanarkshire GP.

Over five friendly sessions, Calm Distress will help you learn new ways to cope with difficult thoughts and feelings. Each session lasts about 20 minutes, giving you lots of useful information in the time it takes to drink a cup of tea.

You can access Calm Distress through the NHS Lanarkshire Mind Matters website:

Living Life to the Full - Online Course

Living Life to The Full is a free web-based life skills course that aims to help us tackle and respond to issues/demands which we all meet in our everyday lives. It will explore issues such as understanding why we feel the way we do, problem solving, noticing and challenging unhelpful thoughts and behaviours and anxiety control. You can register for the course at www.llttf.com and complete as many or as few modules as you wish.

If you feel you need additional help, the Living Life to The Full course is also available with support from self help coaches (via Action on Depression Scotland). To find out more visit www.aod.llttfionline.co.uk

Living Life: Guided Self Help and Cognitive Behavioral Therapy - Telephone Support

Living Life is a free telephone support service for people suffering from low mood, mild to moderate depression, symptoms of anxiety or a combination of both. Trained Self-help coaches and therapists will guide us through a range of workbooks over a series of telephone sessions. For more information or to make a telephone appointment, call 0800 328 9655 (Mon–Fri 1–9pm).
